PARISH COUNCIL MEMBERSHIP: It is that time of year when we make a change in our Parish Council Membership.

This weekend you will be asked to “Nominate” men or women whom you consider would make good representatives on the Council. To be eligible to be on the Council you must be at least 18 years of age, received the Sacrament of Confirmation, and be a registered and active member of St. Anne’s Parish.

So, at this time you are asked to begin a prayerful consideration of whether a place on the St. Anne’s Parish Council might be right for you. All those who are nominated will be called by a Parish Council member to ask if you will accept the nomination. When you do, your name will be placed in a basket, along with all those who have said yes to their nomination and two names will be then drawn. The process has its basis in scripture (Acts of the Apostles 1:20-26), and has been recommended by the Diocesan Planning Office. So, again, prayerfully consider this week whom you will nominate. You can even nominate yourself: You may nominate one to six people.

Mary Ann Edwards and Colleen DeGree terms are completed. They are eligible to be nominated. Other Council Members are: Tom Ehlinger, Robin Schiefelbein, Trudy Westrich, Greg Stang, Fritz Hoffmann and Lois Jensen

GOSPEL CONNECTION: 13TH Sunday of the Year
Jairus’ children

She’s up at 4:00 a.m. and at her computer before the boys are up. She works a couple of hours before she gets them off to school. Then it’s off to the day’s appointments and meetings and back before they get home; then homework, dinner and bedtime. She hits her laptop for an hour or two before going to bed herself to get a head start on the next day. She works to bring in extra money to pay the tuition for her ten-year-old at a special school for the autistic. It’s a strain on her and the family budget, but this school is her son’s best chance - and that’s all that matters.

Another student found her unconscious in the field near the school parking lot - and just in time, the EMTs said. Now her parents sit by her bedside, praying as they never have before that she will wake up. They hadn’t an inkling that she was addicted. But they are resolved that their daughter will not be just another nameless statistic in the opioid epidemic. Regardless of the time and cost, they will get her the help she needs - and they’ll walk with her every step of the way on the long road to recovery.

Their weekends are spent at ball fields and hockey rinks; during the week, they shuttle their young musicians to lessons and practices. The schedule can be a grind, but the children’s love of playing - whether it be with a puck or an oboe - is their joy, too. Watching their children learn what it means to be part of something bigger than themselves, and, maybe, begin to realize a dream, is at the heart of being a parent.

What will we not do for our children? What dragon will not slay to protect them? What chasm will we not cross to bring them to the Promised Land? For many moms and dads, their joys and dreams are inextricably linked to their children’s. Jairus, in today’s Gospel, is just such a dad: to save his beloved daughter, Jairus does not hesitate to risk his standing in the community and career to approach the controversial rabbi reputed to work wonders. A parent’s complete and unconditional love is the very reflection of the love of God in our midst. Whether a parent or friend, a neighbor or mentor, we can mirror that same love in our own generosity of heart, in our own resolve to lift up the fallen, to bring healing to the suffering, to restore life to the dead.
